

Colors Within Flowers

Mixed Media/Ephemera

30 x 23 cm

Exhibition Text

Colors Within Flowers is a visual representation of what the significance of flowers are at certain times in a person's life. It is called Colors Within Flowers because there is always a reason on why a person gives another person a flower. For example, a red flower usually helps a person express their love to the other person and a white flower helps express loss and so on. The piece represents clarity because that is how emotions tend to be from real life experiences.