Exhibition Text

The artist focuses on portraying a similar piece of Frida Kahlo; it's known as The Two Fridas. The piece expresses Kahlo's two different personalities. One is the traditional Frida in a Tehuana costume, with a broken heart and the other one is an independent, modern dressed Frida. The Two Leslie's has a meaningful significance. It's meaning is that she is between two cultures; the one she was born into and one she grew up into. She is the same person in both, but is different at the same time.
